THEY'RE STILL black out at Monache Farm, but it is understood that the great boar, Golden Glory, is rolling and thrashing in his grave since Rolla Bishop turned from Poland Chinas to Angus cattle. At any rate the above steer will be shown by Bishop next week in the Grand National Livestock Exposition in San Francisco's Cow Palace, and a good steer he is. This will be Bishop's second step into big time fat steer competition at the Cow Palace, where, in past years the get of Golden Glory brought grand champion ribbons to Monache Farm. Bishop now has a herd of Angus on his ranch northwest of Porterville; he had his show steer at Camp Nelson all summer.

From

Daybell Nursery

By John

With so many polls being conducted these days we thought you might be interested in the results of one which we have conducted here at the nursery. Due to the type of answers received this poll wasn't carried on past the first two people.

Knowing we had a truckload of beautiful camellias and gardenias arriving next week we thought it timely to ask what customers liked best for a shady spot. It seems these two preferred the hammock. Continuing undaunted, and picturing a fiery red bottle brush, we asked what they liked for a hot location. It seems fifty percent preferred a cold beer followed by the other fifty percent which preferred two cold beers.

We realized the way this thing was going it could set the industry back at least fifty years and decided against further questions. Instead of using the results we have re-read our garden books and come up with the following statistics.

The year is eighty-three and one third percent shot and ninety percent of the gardeners haven't finished fifty percent of the jobs they started out to do. With this in mind we urge you to plant your bulbs, shrubs, camellias, bedding plants, ground covers, and hedge plants at once. This puts you thirty-three and a third percent ahead for next year. It also puts us ahead.

Lastly the good book says watch out for slugs. These are thicker than puncture vine seeds in a new lawn and should be fed slug bait from Daybell's on "E" Street north of Olive.

OUR TOWN

By Gardner (Bud) Wheeler

THERE IS A FINE CONSPIRACY afoot among members of the middle generation, that takes the form of a dignified silence in matters pertaining to Halloween. Members of the middle generation are not to be confused with the grey beards, nor would they be mistaken for teen-agers. Rather, they are those that struggle through twenty-four hours of hard labor each day raising school age moppets.

WHEN WE THINK BACK ON SOME of the antics we were involved in on various October 31sts, it doesn't take two thoughts to make us keep a wary silence. It would be most disturbing to have one of the prides and joys making like a delinquent, and then defending himself with the excuse of "That's what my Dad did!" Now the middle generation encourages fun nights and "trick or treat". We can be duly thankful that the moppets don't recognize the implied blackmail when they screech, "tricker treat", but placidly take the pay-off and go on their ways. We surely used to have some fun though, on Halloween. Take the word of one of the middle generation for that!

EVENTS AND DISCOVERIES, In the mail today, we received a letter pointing out the values and virtues of the Girl Scout movement. In the final paragraph, it also mentioned that the Porterville Girl Scouts were soliciting funds to carry on their work in Our town. We can hardly qualify as an alumna of this organization, but as an outside and unqualified observer, we feel that the Girl Scouts do a great deal of good for youngsters of the girl variety. We'll even back that up by mailing a contribution to their drive and recommend that others do likewise.

IN DEFERENCE TO THE FACT that this is the most fabulous farm newspaper printed on the Main street of Porterville, we should on occasion make some comments about agricultural activities 'round and about the community. Anybody with an eye to color will have detected that the Navel orange crop seems to be maturing. This "seems to be" attitude is held only by neutral observers. Citrus growers, who also scan the market prices, which are higher than somewhat at present, are positive that the fruit is past maturity. This points up an interesting facet of the orange business: when the market is high, every one claims his oranges are ripe; when the market is low, mature oranges are as scarce as music in a juke box.

STILL, CITRUS IS TO PORTERVILLE what oil is to Taft, and when the fall orange season gets rolling, it will be a transfusion to the economic bloodstream of our town. Incidentally, oranges are also good to eat!

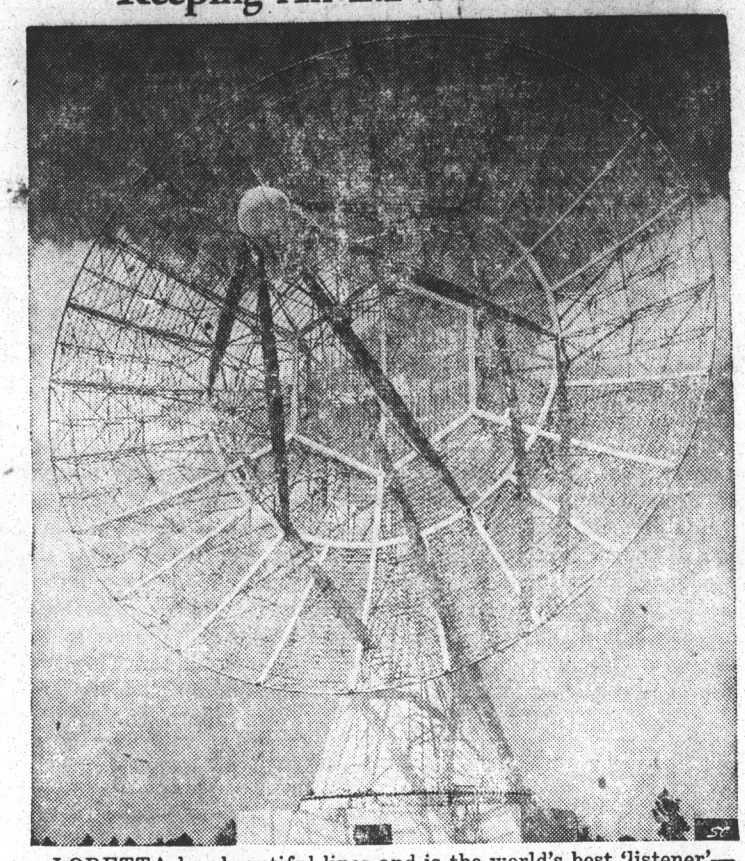
Keeping An Ear To The Skies



LORETTA has beautiful lines and is the world's best 'listener'—her ear is nearly 60 feet in diameter, laugh scientists at Radiation, Inc., pioneer Florida electronics firm. LORETTA, pictured above, is the world's largest and most powerful Long Range Electronic Tracking Telemetry Antenna. With a normal operating range of several thousand miles, she also is capable of tracking the mysterious and distant radio stars. The giant tracking antenna is mounted on a steel tower 38 feet high and 20 feet wide which houses cables and driving mechanisms.

Designed primarily to track Intercontinental Ballistics Missiles fired from the Air Force Missile Test Center at nearby Cape Canaveral, Florida, LORETTA undoubtedly will be of great value in the earth satellite and other rocket programs. Copies will be built by the Melbourne, Florida, electronics firm at Cape Canaveral and at island monitoring sites on Antigua, Ascension and Fernando Noronha.

Chiffon Pie In Style For Fall

Always an outstanding favorite with men, chiffon pie can now be made without cooking when you use a new chiffon pie filling mix. It comes in two flavors — strawberry and lemon — both tangy in flavor for these bright, crisp autumn days to come.

Prepared in about 4 minutes, this mix gives good volume and has a truly chiffon-like texture.

In the photo, lemon chiffon pie filling is combined with part orange juice and part water to produce a delicious blend of flavors. Make the filling up a couple of hours before you expect to serve it so it will be set and well chilled.

Orange-Lemon Chiffon Pie

1 package lemon chiffon pie filling mix
1/2 cup boiling water
1/2 cup orange juice
1/3 cup sugar
1 baked 9-inch pie shell, cooled

Place mix in a large deep mixing bowl. Add boiling water and mix thoroughly. Add orange juice and beat vigorously with rotary beater or at highest speed of electric mixer until mixture is very foamy — takes about 1 minute. Add sugar and beat until filling stands in peaks — takes 1 to 3 minutes. Pour into pie shell. Chill until set — about 2 hours. If desired, garnish with whipped cream and grated orange rind.

IF IT ISN'T ONE THING, IT'S ANOTHER

By William R. Sallee
Farm Advisor

VISALIA, Oct. 24 — About the time plant breeders get one problem licked, another crops up. This happened recently in castor bean breeding work at the University of California, Davis.

Leroy H. Zimmerman, U.S. department of agriculture agronomist stationed at Davis, has been crossing normal castors with a dwarf type to get a high yielding short variety that can be harvested by machine more efficiently.

But the high humidity under the crowded leaves of the dwarf plants turned out to be the perfect environment for an alternaria disease, which attacks the developing seed pods.

So Zimmerman is now screening some 150 lines growing on the Davis campus for plants that show alternia resistance. This disease resistance will then be bred into the dwarf hybrids.

In producing the dwarf-type hybrids, Zimmerman is crossing the tall, normal type now used commercially with dwarfs that have shorter and more internodes — the stem lengths between points. His object is to combine the short internode character from the dwarfs with the smaller number of internodes and high yield of the tall plants.

Castor bean acreages in California increased sixfold this year over last, said Zimmerman. The development of more efficient mechanical harvesters is largely responsible for this tremendous increase, he said.

But harvesting losses from the large plants run about 10 per cent; losses from dwarf plants are only half this amount, he said.

DAIRY ANALYSIS SUBJECT OF MEETING TODAY

VISALIA, Oct. 24 — An interesting program on dairy analysis and self-feeding silos is being held today on the Taylaker ranch near Visalia.

Dairy analysis, which is being followed quite closely by several prominnet purebred Holstein breeders, is one of the subjects that is being discussed by L. H. McDaniels of Turlock. Part of the afternoon's program will be devoted to discussion concerning the self-feeding of silage to dairy cattle.

State grain hay crop is estimated at 855,000 tons, slightly below last year.

COTTON GROWERS SHOULD CHECK NOW FOR ROOT-KNOT NEMATODE; CONTROL METHODS OUTLINED BY FARM ADVISOR

By Alan G. George
Farm Advisor

VISALIA, Oct. 24 — Now is a good time for growers to check for the presence of root-knot nematodes in their cotton fields before the stalks and roots are turned under. Reduced yields in many cotton fields in Tulare county can be traced to this pest, a microscopic worm which lives in the soil and attacks the root of the cotton plant forming knots or galls. The pest is generally more of a problem on the sandier types of soil.

If nematode damage is suspected, an examination of roots dug by shovel can be used as a guide to determine the distribution and abundance of nematodes in a field. Infested roots will have the typical galls or knots, and the severity of the infestation can be judged by the appearance of the plant and the degree of galling.

Root examinations made this season can be used as a guide in deciding whether control measures should be used prior to planting another cotton crop or in planning a crop rotation of a non-host crop if present.

The normal function of the cotton root is impaired by the feeding of nematode, and such plants may starve because of the plants' inability to translocate plant food and water. Nematode affected areas usually result in stunted plant growth, plants of poor color and poor production. The nematode may be a reason for some growers getting an abnormal fertilizer response on cotton.

The root-knot nematode population may be reduced by three methods so that susceptible crops such as cotton, can be grown profitably.

One method of nematode control is by crop rotation, using certain non-host plants. Some crops of the grass family, such as grain, may be planted on infested soil without injury to the plant and at the same time reduce the nematode population.

Summer fallowing is another practice for the control of this nematode. The best method for summer fallowing is to furrow out the soil deeply with alternate furrows and ridges exposing the soil to the high summer temperatures. With this practice the field should be kept dry because nematodes develop more rapidly in moist soil.

The third method of nematode control is by fumigating the soil. Commercial chemical fumigants, such as D-D, Telane, EDB, and Nemagon are toxic to the nematodes. Material can be applied by either the row placement method or by complete coverage prior to the planting of cotton.

Further information on this pest and its control can be obtained in a county circular "Root-Knot Nematode Control in Cotton", by calling at the Farm and Home Advisors office, Room C-1, basement of the post office building, Visalia.

FINS FUR FEATHERS

By PHIL the FORESTER

Duck hunting on the opening day of the Mendota Waterfowl Management Area which was last Saturday must be described as fabulous. Approximately 500 sportsmen harvested an average of five ducks each for a grand total of 2,500 birds consisting of sprig, mallard, teal and spoonbills.

The fish and game department has done an outstanding job in developing the area to attract the ducks and for public hunting. All operations there on Saturday went along as smooth as silk with everybody happy and birds in the bag.

All hunters who came to the area Saturday had been taken care of by 10 a. m.

The department takes only 150 advance reservations for the Mendota public hunting grounds, 50 with boats and the balance without. This leaves 200 hunters that can be taken care of on a first come first served basis at one time.

Now that the opening day excitement is over it's a safe bet that just about any sportsman can find shooting room on any of the regular shoot days, but this also applies to Los Banos, San Luis Wasteways and the Merced areas.

It is the writer's opinion that more hunters have better hunting luck and take more birds on the public hunting grounds of the San Joaquin Valley than on duck clubs.

The Mendota and Los Banos areas are alive with wild pheasants and will be open for pheasant hunting when the season opens. The department does not intend to stock any game farm birds on either area and from what we observed in pheasant numbers it will certainly not be necessary.

Pheasant hunting on the waterfowl management areas, however will be treated as incidental to duck hunting with shooting limited to the duck hunting days only. Hunters will be required to obtain a regular duck hunting permit so the net cost will be $2 for the permit, $2 for a federal duck stamp, $2 for pheasant tags and $3 for a state hunting license, making the cost of a bag limit of pheasants a bit on the expensive side, unless the hunter also bags a limit of ducks.

The Fresno County Sportsmen's Club will close negotiations this week for the purchase of the Wahtoke Lake area, consisting of some 65 acres, of which 30 will be lake. All for the exclusive use of the club members and their families, but anybody can join for $5 per year.

Ducor Center Talks On Farm Bureau Programs

Al Helmuth, area salesman, and Bill Bondurant, distributor, told of the Farm Bureau petroleum program; Warren Hilliard, field specialist on the Farm Bureau health program out of Berkeley, spoke on the organization's hospital and surgical group insurance plan.

We Only Heard

By BILL RODGERS

ALTHOUGH WE'RE a layman in regard to such things as city administration and the auditing of city records, may we suggest that it appears to us, after looking over the last two annual audits, that the so-called "spot" or "partial" audit is to a great extent a waste of money. We believe that as city fathers consider a "complete" audit next year, they should also check the various aspects of a complete audit each year in the future. It is possible that they will find that a complete annual audit, if it is programmed on a several year basis, may cost only a very little more than a series of spot audits, interspersed every three or four years with a complete audit, in which the auditing firm must go back over the records during the years that have elapsed since the last complete audit . . . Bear in mind that major job of an auditor is not usually to catch someone with their "hand in the till", but to check procedures that relate directly to city funds . . . In the case of the city clerk's office, a complete audit a year or two ago might have resulted in correction of some of the poor procedure in this office with the result that the city would have been spared the extra expense that it will probably now face to straighten out certain things that an efficient administrator would never have allowed to happen.

Said John, "Why it's just 18 miles west of Springville."

CARL BROWN RECOVERING FROM HUNTING ACCIDENT SUFFERED ON SLATE MOUNTAIN

WORTH, Oct. 24—Carl Brown, Worth district rancher, is recovering at his home from serious injuries sustained when his horse fell on him while on a deer hunting trip on Slate Mountain.

The accident occurred on opening day of the season when the horse slipped in a loose shale formation and went down with Brown underneath. Although Brown's pelvis was broken in four places, he was able to get back on the horse and ride for nearly two hours, coming out at the Legion tree above Belknap camp.

He was in a Fresno hospital for 10 days, and is now confined to bed at his home. "Lucky" part of the accident was that when the horse fell, its head was turned back under in such a manner that it could not move, otherwise, it would likely have rolled and injured Brown even more seriously.

THE OLD DAYS

MARCH, 1900

John F. Kessing of Oakland is in the county, looking over his property interests in Porterville, Exeter and Tulare.

Senator Perkins and representatives Waters and Needham appeared before the Senate committee on Indian Affairs on Thursday to remonstrate against the abolition of the Tule River Indian agency.

The board of supervisors of Kern county will consider the matter of placing a bounty on coyote scalps next Monday. The supervisors of Tulare and Kings counties have been willing to grant such a bounty whenever Kern county does so.

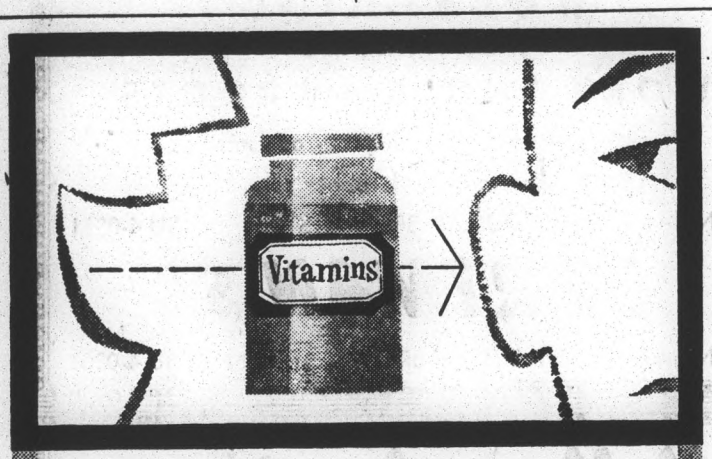
The members of the Porterville fire department have expressed their choice for fire commissioners for the coming year. J. F. Boller, S. J. R. Gilbert and E. W. Beebe were selected.

William Thomas, president of the Pioneer land company, and P. N. Lilienthal, will arrive in Porterville tomorrow evening to remain a couple of days.

James Howell has been in San Francisco for a few days.

Miss Lizzie Howeth of Fountain Springs is visiting Mrs. Bud Kincaid.

James Willson has returned from a trip to Tennessee, where he visited his boyhood home near Nashville.



The world's most expensive sales talk

Door-to-door peddlers are now selling vitamin preparations and nutritional supplements. Good for what ails you, and all that. Here's the danger. You may buy the peddler's vitamins "for what ails you" and postpone that visit to your physician you were planning. And that can be dangerous. Dangerous to your health—your most precious possession. That's why the door-to-door peddler's sales talk can be expensive. Tragically expensive. For advice on vitamins or nutritional supplements, see someone with professional knowledge of such things—your family physician or pharmacist.

PARTY LINE

By Linda Earr

Hello, Oh, it's me all right — just a slight cold. No, not the flu, I want to be different. Did you enjoy your meal at Gus and Elsie's last evening? After you left some of the other diners coming in were Clara and Kenneth Rutherford, Homer Richardson of Strathmore, Gene Green and daughter of Lindsay enroute to a 4-H meeting; and Paul and Ila Wilson out to dinner for Ila. Paul says Ila thought the Yankees would win!

There will be additional activity around town on Saturday nights now that the dancing club is starting its fall season of parties, and the Barn Theater season tickets are now on sale.

Just returning from the Southern California football game and heading north to another are Jane and Ed Stavlo. Alfa and Perne Stavlo, Ed's parents, have returned from a two weeks visit with Alfa's sister and brother-in-law. The Rex Jostens of La Crosse, Wisconsin. Mrs. Josten, a twin sister to Alfa, and mother of Vivian Lucey (of Lucey Drive) visits here often with the Stavlos and the Luceys.

Blanche Joos' mother is here from Fort Thomas, Kentucky. She plans to spend a month with the Joos'.

Pamela and Lynne Scott have had Pam's parents, Dr. and Mrs. L. A. Poulson of Richfield, Utah, as guests. The Poulsons were entertained by a family party while in town. They stopped in Las Vegas en route and took in a couple of shows. Moved here are James and Gertrude Monson from Sacramento. He is top man with the Army Corps of Engineers.

The garden party at the Herman Matzkes had to be postponed because of weather conditions, so European slides will be shown at a later date. Overheard from a conversing group of men: My husband saying his wife does something absolutely great with leftovers — "she throws them out!"

Well, I just can't think of anyone else that's been away or visiting. I for one want to plan a trip to the desert. I read some place where the resorts were expecting 300,000 folks this season. The Palm Springs chamber of commerce is centering world attention on the fact. The new chamber building there is opening with much fanfare. The building, costing $90,000, will unveil the world's first solar powered clock, high atop the new structure. Then "Hank" Gogerty's Desert Air hotel has added some $150,000 additional buildings. The Oasis hotel has added a fancy dining room and other accommodations. Bill Goodwin, TV Star, owner of "The Nook" says they expect an all time high season. So I suspect some Porterville people will be heading that way soon.

The beauty of the desert fascinates me, maybe pitching a tent would be fun. There are a few local folks planning a trip to Mexico soon; I'll check and tell you later. Are you moving any plants inside yet? John Daybell tells me there are those who are: I will probably start the day after a freeze. I usually do! Call again. Right now the younger generation awaits dinner. Bye for now! Oh! I forgot — 20-Ands are installing a new slate of officers at the dinner meeting at the tea garden tonight. Bye again.

Pheasant Season Opens November 16

DOYLE COLONY

By George A. Heintz

By George A. Heintz

Musing: The agricultural workers whose small, paid-for homes dot this community are returning from their "apple knocking" in Washington and Oregon with short money and long faces, tho they worked with might and main the crop was light — and so the cycle starts here again to pick that cotton or grab that olive — the little, big people who help make this the third richest county in the nation — are back home.

I hear the: Well rigs pounding away at granite in search for more water for thirsty automatic washing machines — the puppies that have grown into dogs and yelp at the full moon — the screech of cars burning rubber as youngsters make known their defiance to this age of "git up and go" —

I noticed: Two new rollaway homes being lined up in position near Hooper's Grocery on E. Date — and out E. Putnam they were hammering the roofs on three new homes — Lee's Grocery now has four gas pumps in front of their new store.

Did you know that: Jack Griggs is going to shift his bulk plant operation to south of the Tule but will retain office on E. Date? — that Arbie Bledsoe has 17 houses for sale? — that photographer Larry Davis has a new German-made Isetta car, one cylinder and 60 miles to a gallon? — that a pig is smarter than a horse? — that Kenny McDarment claims to have shot a buck at 600 yards and can prove it?

Have you forgotten: It was just 17 years ago October 29th when the first draft number was pulled out of the bowl in Washington.

You don't remember when: A large winter sheep camp used to be located where Gang Sue's popular restaurant now is.

Underheard at Sunday's Roundup:

Curious bystander: "Did you get those bow legs from a horse?"

Cliff Wilson: "No lady, these are my own legs. A horse just helped give 'em that rainbow effect!"

Taft has dropped games to East Los Angeles, Santa Ana, and Fresno so far this season, yet Coach Bob Hoffman has a powerhouse which is bound to score some upsets in the Central Conference before the end of the season. The Cougars still have Porterville, College of Sequoias and Coalinga to play.

Kane said he was only moderately pleased with the victory over Hancock. Porterville was unable to muster much of an offense during the first half, the Pirate mentor reported, because he was experimenting with different defensive combinations.

However, the Pirates will be in top physical shape for the Taft game, Kane stated. "This is a big one", he said, "and we'll have to go all out to stay in the running."

Probable starters for Porterville will be Dick Freeman and Jim Simpson at ends, Stan Connor and Doug Weisser at tackles, Henry Balangue and Don Caldwell at guards, Slug Lesneski at center, George Lewis at quarterback, Jim Boyett and Ray Springmeyer at halfbacks, and Phil Simonelli at fullback.

Boyett was named "player of the week" for his performance against Hancock. The former Wasco star has been the team's top ground-gainer so far. However, Simonelli, the 160-pound dynamo from Brooklyn edged Boyett in ball-carrying against Hancock, gaining 105 yards in 14 carries.

Taft's line, anchored by 320-pound Larry Cheney, averages over 220 pounds per man and its backs average 181 pounds. George Gonzales, a 158-pound scat back, is the Cougars' top gainer. Taft, according to Kane's scouting reports, relies on sheer power, backed by good fundamentals, in its offense. The Cougars' pass only enough to keep the defense honest, he said.
